MORE PROSPERITY COMING

Improvements Needed before We Can Get Our Share—
A Bond Issue.

Looking into the future, the immediate future, one can easily see the great numbers of new residents that will swell the population of California.

Not only the general immigration from other countries to the United States but the enormous shipping interests that will affect the western coast line will make necessary an increased population here, to care for the new industries and trade that will result.

That portion of the state adjacent to the coast has already felt this impulse and as a consequence real estate values have jumped and are continuously jumping.

In a recent article the News called attention to the fact that real estate values in Sierra Madre were much lower, comparatively, than neighboring locations. The article was read by one of the leading real estate men of Alhambra, and as a result he drove over to investigate. After a look over town and consulting with our local real estate firms, he confirmed the statement and expects to divert investors and home-seekers to this place.

Mr. H. L. Churchill, proprietor of the Sierra Nido Rancho, within the city limits of Sierra Madre, but whose business interests require his residence in San Francisco much of the time, and numerous trips throughout the state, told the News that real estate in Sierra Madre at present prices was way under value, compared with any other locality of which he had knowledge.

So far Sierra Madre has made no effort to attract either the home seeker or the investor, and before this is done we should get ready, put our house in order, and be able to answer the questions of the prospective investor in a satisfactory manner.

They will want to know about the water supply and system, fire protection, sewerage, the disposal of garbage, street signs, and well paved streets.

These things will cost a lot of money but are necessary if Sierra Madre expects to keep up with the procession and get her share of the tidal wave of prosperity that is surely sweeping in this direction.

The only answer is a bond issue. With the cash on hand necessary to put our water system in first-class shape and adequate to handle the volume required, resurface some of our streets and fix up others, and paint street signs on the corners, and other improvements, this city would take on new life, and the many home-seekers who "look the town over" would not go elsewhere to locate.

The trifle, per capita, in a higher tax rate would be compensated for many times over in increased realty values, and the additional residents would help carry the load.

Sierra Madre has many natural advantages. For scenic beauty and healthful climate it is unsurpassed in the state. This is also true as a location for citrus fruits, the soil being peculiarly adaptable and killing frosts unknown.

Almost every week the News mentions visiting home seekers who are looking for residents in Southern California, but subsequent issues fail to chronicle the fact that they purchased property here.

Let's by all means fix up the old town and enjoy the personal benefits besides the financial appreciation that would result.

RECEPTION PLANS GROWING

Arrangements Perfected for Greatest Event in the History of Sierra Madre.

The House Committee of the Red Cross having charge of the grand reception for Sierra Madre service men August 16, met at the Woman's Club House Monday afternoon and perfected arrangements for the big affair.

Chairmen of numerous committees were appointed and former plans enlarged upon, so that the News does not hesitate to say that it will be the greatest public event ever seen in Sierra Madre.

As stated last week, the Sierra Madre service men, including soldiers, sailors and marines, will be given a banquet at the Woman's Club House and all visiting service men and also all veterans of former wars will be their guests.

The names of all visiting service men and veterans should be given to Mrs. M. D. Goodfellow or Miss Edith Blumer, committee on invitation, that none may be overlooked.

We hope to be able to give a full list of committees and the program next week, but meantime you may be sure that they are all at work doing their assigned parts to make this reception an important part of the history of Sierra Madre.

It is planned to publish a booklet containing the pictures and a short sketch of each service man, and if each one or his relatives will send to Mrs. Goodfellow or Miss Bruner a good picture, together with a sketch of his service, regiment, company, location, with dates, etc., it will be of great assistance to the committee. This booklet is intended as a historical souvenir and one will be presented to each service man and a copy placed on file at the city library.

HE MAY BE INSANE

Because he objected to the noise of his neighbors talking and playing a Victrola, Frank Jones, 101 S. Lima, opened fire on the house occupied by Dr. Wm. R. Hart and his chum, O. W. Hale, last Friday night after the boys had retired. Some of the shots struck the front porch where Dr. Hart was sleeping, scattering splinters in his face and over the bed.

Jones was arrested the following morning, charged with insanity, and taken to Los Angeles, where his case was heard yesterday with the result that he was remanded to the psychopathic ward of the county hospital.

Hart and Hale, who are ex-soldiers and have been living in Sierra Madre for some six months to recuperate from the effects of sickness contracted in the service, have made many friends here by their gentlemanly conduct and affable disposition. They report that their neighbor took a dislike to them because they did not receive his social advances with the fervor he expected and on at least one occasion he threatened to shoot them both. Jones claims the boys threw rocks on his roof, probably the cracking of rafters caused by heat expansion, familiar to most of us.

The News is content to give the simple facts, without details, believing that a sensational story of this character is bad advertising for the town.

CORRECT THIS LIST

C. W. Jones, chairman of the committee appointed to select the memorial tablet for our service men, was in Los Angeles this week conferring with metal working concerns, and it is important that the list below be absolutely correct before the names are given the factory to be put on the tablet. If you know of a correction or addition, please notify the News at once.

LEGAL HEADLIGHT TESTS

Sierra Madre Garage Will Give Free
Tests in Conformity with New State Law.

On the night of Wednesday and Thursday, July 30-31, the Sierra Madre Garage will give free tests to automobile headlights in accordance with the state law which went into effect last Tuesday.

A screen will be erected properly marked and ruled, with distance lines marked on the floor, so that tests may be made rapidly and accurately.

Machines will enter the west doors of the garage, in turn, commencing at 8 p. m. and drive to the rear of the room, where the tests will be made, then turn to the right through the machine shop and vulcanizing department and leave the building through the east doors.

Experts will be on hand, and besides the tests the new law will be explained and all possible information given freely and without cost.

This free service is in keeping with the policy of this modern business institution, and Mr. Steinebrger says "Service that serves" is their ambition.

This public spirited effort will be appreciated by the motoring public, most of whom have little idea of the new requirements, but all of whom desire to avoid an experience in court to pay for the information.

THE SIERRA MADRE MILLS

A recent visit to the Sierra Madre Mills proved not only interesting but instructive as well. The proprietor, Mr. V. L. Graham, seemed delighted to explain his various processes and products, with especial pride in the manner in which he cleans the grain before grinding, every kernel of which is thoroughly screened and washed at least three times before it is introduced to the hopper, with the result that his Graham flour and corn meal are pure and wholesome, with a delicious flavor all their own.

Much more might be said regarding his Graham flour, which is truly a health food, the beneficial results being proven by many testimonials from customers who have been cured of dyspepsia, indigestion, ulcers of the stomach, nervousness, mal-nutrition, etc. It is equally palatable and beneficial when served as porridge, mush, or eaten as bread.

His corn meal also enjoys an enviable reputation and much of his product is shipped to outside towns.

Sierra Madre people will assist in building up this business to large proportions with their patronage and the money will stay at home.

SIERRA MADRE FOR HEALTH

With a good Sanitarium or two, properly located and managed by high class specialists and nationally advertised, Sierra Madre would come into her own. No disputing the fact that this is a healthful location. Let's capitalize this fact. A "near Sanitarium" managed by incompetent people would be detrimental and create the opposite of the desired of a dignified institution, financially responsible and professionally would, the News believes, be benefit to Sierra Madre and humanity.

Dare He Confide in Anyone? Carlyle Takes a Chance.

Synopsis—Geoffrey Carlyle, master of sailing ships at twenty-six, is sentenced to 20 years' servitude in the American colonies for participation in the Monmouth rebellion in England. Among the passengers on board the ship on which he is sent across are Roger Fairfax, wealthy Maryland planter; his niece, Dorothy Fairfax, and Lieutenant Sanchez, a Spaniard, who became acquainted with the Fairfaxes in London. Carlyle meets Dorothy, who informs him her uncle has bought his services. Sanchez shows himself an enemy of Carlyle. The Fairfax party, now on its own sloop in the Chesapeake bay, encounters a mysterious bark, the Namur of Rotterdam. Carlyle discovers that Sanchez is "Black Sanchez," planning to steal the Fairfax gold and abduct Dorothy. He fights Sanchez and leaves him for dead. In a battle with Sanchez' followers, however, he is overpowered and thrown into the bay. In a desperate effort to save Dorothy, Carlyle decides to swim to the Namur. By a ruse he gets aboard and mingles with the crew. The pirates return to the Namur with Dorothy, the captured gold and Sanchez, badly wounded but still alive.

CHAPTER XII—Continued.

He glanced about warily, lowering his voice until it became a hoarse whisper.

"Three years, mate, and most of that time has been hell. I haven't even been ashore, but once, and that was on an island. These fellows don't put any trust in my kind, nor give them any chance to cut and run. Once in awhile a lad does get away, but most of them are caught; and those that are sure get their punishment. They never try it again. I've seen them staked out on the sand and left to die; that ain't no nice thing to remember."

"But how did you come into it?"

"Like most of the rest. I was second mate of the Ranger, a Glasgow ship. These fellows overhauled us at break about a hundred miles off the east end of Cuba. Our skipper was Scotch, and he put up some fight, but it wasn't any use. There was only three of us left alive when the pirates came aboard. One of these died two days later, and another was washed overboard and drowned down in the Gulf. I am all that is left of the Ranger."

"You saved your life by taking on?"

"Sanchez had the two of us, who were able to stand, back in his cabin. He put it to us straight. He said it was up to us whether we signed up or walked the plank; and he didn't appear to care a damn which we chose."

"And you say others of this crew have been obtained in the same manner?"

"I questioned, deeply interested, and perceiving in this a ray of hope."

"Not exactly—no, I wouldn't precisely say that. It's true, perhaps, that most of the Britishers were forced to join in about the same way I was, hound who kicked you is a Portuguese, and LeVerre is more nigger than anything else. I'll bet there is a hundred rats on board this Namur right now who'd cut your throat for a sovereign, and never so much as think of it again."

"A hundred? Is there that many aboard?"

"A hundred an' thirty all told. Most o' 'em bunk amidstships. They're not sailormen, but just cut-throats, an' sea wolves. Yer ought ter see 'em swarm out on deck, like hungry rats, when there's a fight comin'. It's all they're good fer."

"Watkins," I said soberly, after a pause during which he spat on the dirty deck to thus better express his feelings, "do you mean to say that in three years you've had no chance to escape? No opportunity to get away?"

"Not a chance, mate; no more will you. I know what yer thinkin' 'bout. I had them notions too when I first come aboard—gettin' all the decent sort together, and takin' the vessel. 'Twon't work; that ain't 'nough who'd risk it, and if that was, yer couldn't get 'em together. Sanchez is too damn smart fer that. Every damn rat is a spy. I ain't hed no such talk as this afore in six months, Gates; the last time cost me twenty lashes at the mast-butt. What'd yer have in yer mind, mate?"

"Only this, Watkins. I've got to do something, and believe I can trust you—it's not my life I'm thinking about, but that of a woman."

"A woman! Not the one brought aboard last night?"

"Exactly; now listen—I'm going to tell you my story, and ask your help. My name is not Gates, and I am not the man Mendez brought aboard drunk, and who was thrown over the rail by LeVerre. That fellow was drowned. I am Geoffrey Carlyle, an English skipper."

Thereupon I told him my story in detail. Then I said:

"I have no plan; to become a member of the crew was my only thought. But I must act, if at all, before the captain recovers. He would recognize me at sight. You will aid, advise me?"

"That is easier to ask than answer, mate," he admitted finally. "I am an English seaman, and will do my duty, but so far as I can see, there is no plan we can make. It is God who will save the girl, if she is to be saved. He may use us to that end, but it is wholly beyond our power to accomplish it alone. The only thing I can do is to sound out the men aboard, and learn just what we can expect of them if any opportunity to act comes. There are not more than a dozen at most to be relied upon. Play your part, and keep quiet. If you can let her know of your presence aboard it might be best—for if she saw you suddenly, unprepared, she might say or do something to betray you. There are other reasons why it may be best for her to know she is not entirely deserted."

He leaned over, motioning me toward him, until his lips were at my ear.

"It may not prove as hopeless as it appears now," he whispered confidentially. "I helped carry Sanchez to his stateroom, and washed and dressed his wound. There is no surgeon aboard. He has a bad cut, and is very weak from loss of blood. The question of our success hinges on Pedro Estada. This is a chance he has long been waiting for. The only question is, has he the nerve to act. I doubt if he has alone, but LeVerre is with him, and that half-breed would cut the throat of his best friend. You understand?—the death of Sanchez would make Estada chief."

"But," I interposed, "in that case what would the crew do?"

"Accept Estada, no doubt; at least the cut-throats would be with him, for he is of their sort. But Sanchez's death would save you from discovery, and," his voice still lower, so that I barely distinguished the words, "in the confusion aboard, if we were ready, the Namur might be so disabled as to compel them to run her ashore for repairs. That would give you a chance. If once we reach Porto Grande there is no hope."

A marling-spike pounded on the scuttle, and Haines' voice roared down.

"Port watch! Hustle out, bullies!"

CHAPTER XIII.

I Accept a Proposal.

I went on deck with the watch, and mingled with them forward. A Portuguese boatswain set me at polishing the gun mounted on the fore-castle. I was busily at work on this bit of ordnance, when Estada came on deck for a moment. The fellow came to observe me.

"You must be a pretty tough bird, Gates," he said roughly, "or I would have killed you last night—I had the mind to."

Something about his voice and manner led me to feel that, in spite of his roughness, he was not in bad humor.

"That would have been a mistake, sir," I answered, straightening up, and in hand, "for it would have cost you a good seaman. Three years ago I was skipper on my own vessel. The Bombay Castle, London to Hongkong; I wrecked her off Cape Mendez in a fog. I was drunk below, and it cost me my ticket."

"You know West Indian waters?"

"Slightly; I made two voyages to Panama, and one to Havana."

"And speak Spanish?"

"A little bit, sir, as you see; I learn languages easily."

He stared straight into my face, but without uttering another word, turned on his heel and went below. I had finished my labor on the cannonade, and was fastening down securely the tarpaulin, when a thin, stoop-shouldered fellow, with a hang-dog face crept up the ladder to the poop, and shuffled over to LeVerre.

"Mister LeVerre, sir."

"Well, what is it, Gunsauls?"

"Senor Estada, sir; he wishes to see a sailor named Gates in the cabin."

"Who? Gates? Oh, yes, the new man. He swept his eyes about, until he saw me. "Follow the steward below; Senor Estada wishes to see you—go just as you are."

"Very good, sir."

The fellow led me away. There was no one in the main cabin. I followed the beckoning steward, who rapped with his knuckles on one of the side doors. Estada's voice answered.

I stepped inside, doubtful enough of what all this might mean, yet quite prepared to accept of any chance it might offer. Estada sat up-right in the chair gazing straight at me, his own face clearly revealed in the light from the open port. His face was swarthy, long and thin, with hard, set lips under a long, intensely black mustache, his cheeks strangely crisscrossed by lines. The nose was large, distinctively Roman, yielding him a hawklike appearance, but it was his eyes which fascinated me. They were dark and deeply set, absolute wells of cruelty. I had never before seen such eyes in the face of a human being; they were beastly, devilish; I could feel my blood chill as I looked into their depths, yet I held myself erect and waited for the man to speak. Then his lips curled in what was meant to be a smile. He arose, stepped quietly to the door and glanced out, returning apparently satisfied.

"I don't trust that steward," he said, "nor, as a matter of fact, anyone else wholly." He paused and stared at me, then added: "I've never had any faith in your race, Gates, but am inclined to use you. Every Englishman I ever knew was a liar and a sneaking poltroon. I was brought up to hate the race and always have. I can't say that I like you any better than the others. I don't, for the matter of that. But just now you can be useful to me if you are of that mind. This is a business proposition, and it makes no odds if we hate each other, so the end is gained. How does that sound?"

"Not altogether bad," I admitted. "I have been in some games of chance before."

"I thought as much," eagerly, "and money has the same chink however it be earned. You could use some?"

Carlyle sees a chance to carry through his wild plan to save Dorothy and himself, but there are many pitfalls in the way. The chance is a desperate one. Shall he take it? Carlyle can see but one answer to the question.

"But I am not anxious to sell it yet for dissection," Datas told a writer for London Tit-Bits the other day. "It is worth more to me than £2,000."

Datas has lately been devouring war facts and had just added a couple of thousand in two and a half hours to his repertoire when we met.

"For an outlay of twopenny," he said, "I bought a little book on a bookstall, called 'Two Thousand Facts About the War.' I bought it and read the list through in two and a half hours and then knew it by heart."

There is no doubt about it. I tested Datas with the book in my hand, and no matter what question I asked him—dates of battles, air raids, names of ships sunk, famous generals' careers—he answered them without hesitation, says the writer.

Datas has had many amusing and curious experiences, but the most extraordinary was the friendly dinner he shared with John Lee, the Babacombe murderer, and the late James Barry, the executioner who tried to hang

Lee three times but failed. "Berry, after ceasing to be an executioner, set up at Bradford as a phrenologist and character reader," said Datas. His card bore the words: "Heads examined." He examined a good many heads in his time."

KIDNEYS' WEAKENING? BETTER LOOK OUT!

Kidney and bladder troubles don't disappear of themselves. They grow upon you, slowly but steadily, undermining your health with deadly certainty, until you fall a victim to incurable disease.

Stop your troubles while there is time. Don't wait until little pains become big aches. Don't trifle with disease. To avoid future suffering begin treatment with GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules now. Take three or four every day until you feel that you are entirely free from pain.

This well-known preparation has been one of the national remedies of Holland for centuries. In 1896 the government of the Netherlands granted a special charter authorizing its sale.

The good housewife of Holland would almost as soon be without food as without her "Real Dutch Drops," as she quaintly calls GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules. Their use restores strength and is responsible in a great measure for the sturdy, robust health of the Hollanders.

Do not delay. Go to your druggist and insist on his supplying you with a box of GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules. Take them as directed, and if you are not satisfied with results your druggist will gladly refund your money. Look for the name GOLD MEDAL on the box and accept no other. In sealed boxes, three sizes.

George Bailey, answering the Inquiry, "What is good for a boy to eat?" says:

"At this time of the year, according to the theories extant in North Carolina in 1870, a boy should have daily plenty of green fruit, pine rosin, young cucumbers, raw new potatoes, green blackberries, doughnuts, branch water and two hours in the swimming hole."

FRECKLES

Now is the Time to Get Rid of These Ugly Spots

There's no longer the slightest need of feeling ashamed of your freckles, as Othine—double strength—is guaranteed to remove these homely spots.

Simply get an ounce of Othine—double strength—from your druggist, and apply a little of it night and morning and you should soon see that even the worst freckles have begun to disappear, while the lighter ones have vanished entirely. It is seldom that more than one ounce is needed to completely clear the skin and give a beautiful clear complexion.

Be sure to ask for the double strength Othine, as this is sold under guarantee of money back if it fails to remove freckles.—Adv.

Acid-Stomach

Millions of people—in fact about 9 out of 10—suffer more or less from indigestion, acute or chronic. Nearly every case is caused by Acid-Stomach.

There are other stomach disorders which also are sure signs of Acid-Stomach—belching, heartburn, bloating after eating, food repelling, sour, gassy stomach. There are many ailments which, while they do not cause much distress in the stomach itself, are, nevertheless, traceable to an acid-stomach. Among these are nervousness, biliousness, cirrhosis of the liver, rheumatism, impoverished blood, weakness, insomnia, melancholia and a long train of physical and mental miseries that keep the victims in miserable health year after year.

The right thing to do is to attack these ailments at their source—get rid of the acid-stomach. A wonderful modern remedy called EATONIC now makes it easy to do this.

One of hundreds of thousands of grateful users of EATONIC writes: "I have been troubled with indigestion for about nine years and have spent quite a sum for medicine, but without relief. After using EATONIC for a few days the gas and pain in my bowels disappeared. EATONIC is just the remedy I needed."

We have thousands of letters telling of these marvelous benefits. Try EATONIC and you, too, will be just as enthusiastic in its praise.

Your druggist has EATONIC. Get a big 50c box from him today. He will refund your money if you are not satisfied.

The KITCHEN CABINET

Failure is, in a sense, the highway to success, inasmuch as every discovery of the false leads us to seek earnestly after what is true, and every fresh experience points out some form of error which we shall afterward carefully avoid.—John Keats.

GOOD DISHES TO TRY.

Fill cream puffs made the size of a walnut with seasoned cream cheese and serve with the salad. Add whipped cream and any desired seasoning to the cheese.

Prune Pie.—Put through a sieve one cupful of stewed prunes, add a cupful of rich milk, one teaspoonful of cornstarch and the yolks of two eggs, a third of a cupful of sugar and a bit of salt. Pour into a pastry shell and bake. Cover with a meringue using the egg whites, or they may be stirred into the mixture just before baking.

Filled Rolls.—Cut a slice from the top of the rolls, scoop out the centers and brush with butter, then brown in the oven. Fill with any creamed fish, chicken or vegetable. Sprinkle with parsley and serve.

A most delicious dessert may be made when baking pastry. Reserve a baked shell, which if kept in a dry, cold place will be crisp and good several days later. Fill the shell with sliced strawberries mixed with sugar and heap over the top sweetened whipped cream. Garnish with quartered berries and serve very cold.

Marmalade Tart.—Fill a pastry-lined plate with any desired marmalade—apple or plum are both good. Cover the top with rings of apple cut from a cored and peeled apple. Sprinkle with lemon juice and sugar and bake half an hour. Serve with spoonfuls of whipped cream or cream cheese in each ring of the apple.

Vienna Steak.—Take half a pound each of veal and lean beef; chopped, season well with salt, pepper and onion juice, with a few drops of lemon juice and a grating of nutmeg. Cook over coals or in the broiler under gas from eight to ten minutes. Serve with creamed butter and paprika spread over each steak. A very hot frying pan may be used for broiling if it is but lightly greased.

It is scarcely an exaggeration to say that many matters which agitate the public mind are not worth a thought in comparison with dietary questions to which a thought is seldom given.

HELPFUL HINTS.

There are some ideas which it is hard to get away from, in regard to meat values. The tender cuts of meat do not contain any more nourishment than the coarser cuts and these are richer in flavor, as they are cut from active muscles.

Meat that has been used for soup has lost its flavor but the food value is there, and by adding various seasonings a most palatable dish may be prepared.

A thrifty housewife may have two good meals from a three-pound knuckle of veal. Cover the meat with cold water and cook until the meat is tender but not tasteless. Remove the meat and add two tablespoonfuls of rice that is well cooked, a grating of lemon rind or a pinch of mace, and a pint of milk, when hot serve at once.

For the second meal, cut the meat into bits. Fry a small onion in a little fat, remove the onion and cook the meat. Cook with stock or water and cook five minutes, flavor with two teaspoonfuls of curry powder, thicken the gravy with flour and add a tablespoonful of vinegar. Serve with a border of rice.

Pieces of rare steak or roast beef make a most delicious dish when combined with the following: Put the meat through the meat grinder. Fry a small onion in a tablespoonful of fat. Put a layer of parboiled potatoes, cut in slices, in the bottom of a baking dish, sprinkle with the meat and the fried onion, add a little gravy if at hand and pour over a cupful or more of tomatoes. Bake in a moderate oven until the potatoes are tender. Just before serving garnish the top of the dish with a tablespoonful of cooked green peas.

One Piece Dish.—Arrange a layer of sliced potatoes in a baking dish, cover with a sliced onion, then place pork chops over all and put into the oven to bake. Serve from the dish in which the food was baked. Salt and pepper is added when arranging the food in the dish. Bake until the chops are brown on top.

Never give up! There are chances and changes. Helping the hopeful, a hundred to one; And through the chaos, high wisdom arranges. Ever success, if you'll only hold on.

FOOD FOR TODAY.

The onion is one of the most valuable vegetables, and should be eaten freely throughout the year. A little sprig of parsley eaten after eating onions will remove the objectionable odor.

Onions Stuffed With Nuts.—Boil even sized onions until tender, remove the centers, chop and mix these with butter, chopped nuts, salt, pepper and bread crumbs. Fill the onions and pour around them a little thin cream or rich milk, or any broth with which to baste them while baking. Serve as a garnish to a platter of pork chops or they may take the place of meat.

Baked Ham.—Soak a ham over night. In the morning put in a kettle one onion, one carrot, six cloves, six peppercorns, one bay leaf and water to cover. Simmer for two hours. When tender remove the skin, place on a rack in a baking pan and bake two to three hours, basting with cider and a cupful of water from the ham liquor. When done stir in a tablespoonful of brown sugar into the cider sauce and cover the ham and brown. Serve hot with the liquor from the pan poured around it, or served in a gravy boat.

Nippon Salad.—To one cupful of crab meat add one dozen stuffed olives chopped, two cupfuls of celery and French dressing well seasoned to marinate. Serve with mayonnaise dressing garnished with capers and pickles. There is no economy in using old, worn-out, clumsy tools. A leaky pail which leaves its trail wherever it is carried is the worst kind of economy.

Wouldst thou fashion for thyself a seemly life? Then do not fret over what is past and gone; And spite of all thou mayest have left behind, Live each day as if thy life were just begun.

GOOD THINGS TO EAT.

The early green apples make delicious spiced apples to use throughout the year. Prepare a moderately sweet sirup with a few cloves and twice as much cinnamon.

Wash, but do not peel the apples, as green apple skin cooks well and adds to the flavor. Drop in the sliced apples a few at a time and cook until tender, when all are cooked let the sirup cook down until quite thick and pour over them. Seal in small glasses or jars.

Cheese Salad.—Dissolve a tablespoonful of gelatin in four tablespoonfuls of hot water, add half a pound of grated cheese and a pint of whipped cream, season well with salt and paprika with a few dashes of cayenne. Pour into a wet mold and allow it to become firm. Turn out and cut in slices, serve on lettuce with mayonnaise dressing or with any desired boiled dressing.

Savory Rice and Vegetables.—Peel and slice six large tomatoes and chop two sweet peppers fine, butter a baking dish and put in a layer of tomatoes, cover with half a cupful of cooked rice and chopped peppers, repeat with another layer, season each layer with two tablespoonfuls of butter, a sprinkling of sugar and salt. Bake covered for three-quarters of an hour, then uncover for 15 minutes.

Date, Nut and Pineapple Salad.—Chop a cupful of dates and three good-sized apples, add a cupful of chopped celery, a cupful of broken nutmeats and a half pound of seeded and skinned grapes. Mix all together and heap on a slice of pineapple arranged on a lettuce leaf. Serve with mayonnaise dressing. A few marshmallows may be added or substituted for the nut meats if desired.

Rocks.—Beat together a half cupful each of lard and other shortening, add a cupful and a half of sugar, two eggs well beaten, a cupful of sour milk, two cupfuls of oatmeal and three cupfuls of flour, sifted with a teaspoonful of soda and one of cinnamon. Add a half cupful each of raisins and walnuts chopped. Mix and drop on a buttered pan and bake in a moderate oven.

Many Styles of Daytime Gowns

Daytime summer dresses are widely varied now that the twilight hours are so long, thanks to the imaginary hour we advanced last March, observes a prominent creator of fashions. The early part of the day is given over to sport frocks or simple silk and voile gowns with organdie fichu or trimmings of lace for the less strenuous person to whom "sport frocks" are not becoming. With the coming of afternoon femininity begins to think of dressing for dinner, with the result that the necks of afternoon gowns are quite low and the sleeves very sheer or quite short.

Georgette crepe in plain ground and flowered patterns is profusely used for these cool, clingy afternoon frocks. Rose, orchid and flesh pink are the favorite colors, made up in combination with white. Crepe chiffon, which is the loveliest of the crepe fabrics, makes exquisite gowns for afternoon and evening wear, while charmeuse and meteor in all the pastel shades are exquisite and develop many entrancing frocks.

Organdie and the softer fabrics of batiste and cotton voile make exquisite lingerie dresses which look their loveliest when making a background for the youth of a pretty girl. Vivid shades of rose and coral organdie are very popular for these girlish frocks, while the demand for pink, blue and orchid never wanes. The imported organdies, which run in lacy squares and stripes, are capable of exquisite development into dainty afternoon frocks of the quaint variety.

There are many tissue-like cottons to which the manufacturers have treated us this year. These sheer materials combine well with white organdie ruffles and are equally lovely with trimmings of Valenciennes.

Hand-embroidered frocks of white mull and batiste are always attractive when the mercury plays tag with the gown is strikingly lovely in its daintiness or beautiful in the elaboration of its embroidery. It seems a foolish waste of money for the effect achieved. Embroidered flouncings are adapted to some of the models, but flouncing usually has to be made up in a rather set way.

Georgette and Organdie.

An interesting gown which combines flowered georgette crepe and white or gandie is the model having the ruffled side panel. In this material white flowers are scattered on a pink ground. The waist of this dress is very simple and it depends upon the beauty of its material rather than on the elaboration of its lines for success. The sleeves are sewed into a plain blouse which is cut away in front to display a vest of hand-tucked organdie which is cut in bands and sewed together by means of tiny cords of organdie. Around the neck and vest line runs a crisp ruffle of white organdie, picot finished. The bell-shaped sleeves are cut three-quarter length to display long, tight cuffs of organdie made into tucks and cords to match the vest.

The skirt of this gown is slightly gathered at the waist line. It is trimmed with three folds of flowered georgette which simulate tucks, above which crisply stand ruffles of white organdie. The panels which characterize this skirt are long and rather wide and are edged with organdie ruffles. Wherever these organdie ruffles appear they are machine hemstitched to the georgette crepe with pink thread.

With this picturesque gown is worn a broad hat of pink straw, faced with pink Baronette satin and tied with a ribbon of Baronette.

A gown which is in striking contrast to the elaborate effect of the georgette model is found in the dress of gray charmeuse, one of the loveliest fabrics in the world. It looks like the sheen of moonlight on water.

In Gray Charmeuse

The neck of this gown is finished with charmeuse, which is brought into striking worldliness by a row of red satin buttons and red bound buttonholes. The gown fastens down the front in an unusual line which runs from the collar to an insert of red charmeuse strapped with folds of white taffeta, which gives a bizarre note to the otherwise demure look of this gown. A row of similar red buttons runs down the side of this insert. These buttons and those on the collar and cuffs may be gray with good effect. The girle of this gown makes no attempt to be striking. It leaves all that to the red charmeuse and simply performs the office of snugly outlining the waist with a band of gray charmeuse.

The skirt of gray charmeuse is one of those gracefully draped affairs which are always successful when developed in a supple fabric like charmeuse.

The smart sailor worn with this costume is black with a trimming of stiff

BOY SCOUTS

THIS SCOUT "ALWAYS THERE"

Scout Francis Coon, the standard bearer who carries the troop flag of Carbondale, Pa. Troop No. 2, is fifteen years old, 3 feet 10 inches high and weighs 47½ pounds.

The scout is not discouraged because of his small stature, for he says he "grows a little every once in a while."

He has no reason to be discouraged, for his record in war work for Uncle Sam is one which any scout might envy. In the second Liberty loan campaign, he sold eight bonds. In the third, 13 bonds, and in the fourth, 217 bonds. He has used 31 red postcards, making War Savings stamp sales to the amount of about $800.

During the black walnut census, he found four trees. One of these was eight miles from his home, another 15 and the last two 25 and 35 miles respectively. He went five miles to spot another, which he remembered having seen, but when he arrived at the spot found that the tree had been cut down.

When asked to describe his method of selling Liberty bonds, he said: "I get hold of a fellow I think ought to buy a bond and hang onto his coat tail until he does."

LIEUT. MILTON LOWENSTEIN.

New York city's first eagle scout, flew for boy scout week.

"YOUNG TEDDY" FOR SCOUTS.

Lieut. Col. Theodore Roosevelt addressed the members of the national council of the Boy Scouts of America in their convention at the Hotel Commodore in New York city and explained the result of the military training upon the men of the nation, emphasizing the three most beneficial effects produced.

The training served to democratize and Americanize, and lastly was of a great educational value. In his appeal to returned officers and men he declared that every man so trained should, as a matter of duty, be willing to bestow that advantage upon the coming generation by offering his services as leader of boys.

In so doing these men will render a further patriotic service to their country.

SCOUTING HELPS THE COURT.

In sending a contribution to Edward H. Butler, editor of Buffalo Evening News, for the maintenance of boy scout work, United States Attorney Stephen T. Lockwood said:

"I wish to state that I am strong for the boy scouts. If everybody in the city of Buffalo could be physically strong, mentally awake and morally straight, I would have the opportunity of dismissing the federal grand jury, to go home and meditate in my garden for a few weeks."

BOY SCOUT DOINGS.

A boy scout in Plainfield, Conn., did his daily "good turn" by going each morning and evening to milk the cows for a neighbor who was ill.

In Providence, R. I., Boy Scout Troop No. 21 earned over $40 and then bought yarn for the Red Cross to be knitted for the soldiers and sailors.

In appreciation of services rendered to the city of New London, Conn., by scouts in a street cleaning campaign, Mayor E. Frank Morgan presented 57 scouts with medals bearing the seal of the city.

The Covington, Ky., board of education has passed a resolution that the Boy Scouts of America is to be given precedence over all other organizations work with boys which may be developed in connection with the public schools of that city.

The boy scouts of Quincy, Mass., have a headquarters containing 4,545 square feet of building space and 68,000 square feet of land to keep in condition. The scouts sweep, scrub and oil the floors, wash windows, dust, keep the grounds in good condition, run errands, do clerical work and all kinds of chores.

GOOD ROADS

PROSPERITY IN GOOD ROADS

Future Development of Country Must Begin With Improved Highways to Relieve Congestion.

There are today some 2,500,000 miles of rural roads in the United States. Of this amount perhaps 12 per cent could be classified as improved, while only about one-fourth of one per cent can be said to be suitable for the carriage of heavy-duty motortrucks. And in the face of this condition it can be said without chance of contradiction that the future development of the United States rests upon the roads.

The past few years have witnessed a tremendous turnover in transportation from the railway to the highway, says Roy D. Chapin, former chairman of the highways transport committee of the council of national defense. The congestion which prevailed during the war made necessary the commercial utilization of the highway to an extent thought impossible a scant few years ago.

The motortruck, little known before the war, sprang into prominence as a commercially practical form of transportation, and while the fighting has ceased the need for the motor truck remains with us, more insistent than ever before.

Within certain limitations the freight car of the highway is more efficient than the rail carrier, and because of it it may be taken as a permanent form of transportation and one destined to have a large influence on the movements of trade in the future.

The hour has struck when the fast-moving efficient motor vehicle of commerce must replace the horse and the costly terminal charges which prevail upon the short-haul branches of the rail lines. Already the motortruck has become a "feeder" to the railroad; shortly it is destined to aid enormously to the profitable long hauls, while entirely or very nearly so eliminating the unprofitable spurs.

Railroad men generally recognize the new movement and welcome it. Street railway men, not so keenly alert to its possibilities as a feeder to their lines, have yet to take the fullest advantage of the opportunities which it presents.

But back of the motortruck rests the road. While the highway as such is of little interest to those outside of the engineering field, as a means for transportation it becomes of vital importance to every citizen of the United States, whether he be in profession or trade, a minister, a merchant, a doctor. High and low, rich and poor, the road comes into contact with all of us, and upon its relative efficiency depends to a greater extent than most of us dream the ultimate cost of all that we eat, wear, have.

"No one knows how much the country pays for cartage," said William C. Redfield, secretary of commerce, recently, "but anyone who looks into the question is pretty sure to find out that the figures are larger than he thought it could be."

Yet cartage is but one phase of road costs. Poor roads mean isolation, which in turn mean fewer possibilities for education, fewer opportunities for wealth, lower real estate valuations as well as increased costs of supplies. Every sound, fundamental economic reason speaks out for the durable road, just as it protests against the poor, inadequately constructed highway.

Despite these facts, which will be verified by all who have studied the question, despite the fact that the official government figures placed the hauling over the highways at 2,000,000,000 ton-miles in 1917, our roads are today all that they should not be. They are inefficient, inadequate, antiquated.

IMPROVE TO SAVE HAULING

Hardening Surface, Reducing Grade or Shortening Distance Brings Farm Nearer to Town.

The test of a wagon road is the amount of work that can be done on it without injury thereto, that is the time and labor required in hauling over it. Any improvement, whether in hardening its surface, easing its grade, or shortening the distance, reduces the time and effort of getting to market and brings the farm nearer to town.

The Will of the People

Last week I used this space in a modest appeal for "Harmony in town building" and invited ideas from the public regarding the best line along which we should strive to push our city to greater greatness. There was no response, not because of a lack of ideas, but rather the willingness to "let George do it."

Perhaps our invitation was too gentle; maybe a good shove will be required. I've noticed that someone generally "hollers" if their toes are stepped on, so I'm going to stamp down a good hard "tomp" in the next line:

LET'S HEAR YOUR OPINION OF SIERRA MADRE AS A HEALTH RESORT, ADVERTISING, SANITARIUMS, ETC.

This space will, for a time, be reserved for communications along this line. Make this corner of the paper a Public Forum and discuss this most important subject. You all have ideas and opinions—express them here. The space is yours, and all articles will be published in turn without prejudice.

HOPE

Why let the daily cares of life
Claim victory o'er the soul;
Through weary hours of toil and strife,
Each moment claims its toll.

But this will swiftly pass away,
Each hour seems shorter grown:
And glows a dawn of brighter day,
When earth's brief night has flown.

Let not your discordant grief,
Another's brightness mar;
Remember this sojourn is brief,
We may not travel far.

Look forward to that better world,
Awaiting those who come;
Not unprepared—resisting hurled,
But worthy—seeking Home.

A. L. SORAN.

ASK YOUR BANKER

Oil, mining, industrial and numerous other corporations are flooding the state with advertisements, circulars and personal letters, soliciting the purchase of their various stocks or bonds, and to the ordinary reader many of the appeals seem to lead to quick, sure and abundant wealth, and that the "financial campaign" is meeting with success is proven by the increasing amount of advertising.

We do not even suggest that all or any of this advertising is fraudulent, but we do question the ability of a large number of our readers to distinguish between the various stocks and bonds offered and the intrinsic value behind each investment.

Of the score or more of various kinds of bonds, each is a combination promissory note and a mortgage secured by some kind of intrinsic value, with a definite rate of interest, while common stock, the kind usually offered, is simply the sale of a share in a company that may have no intrinsic value and whose only assets may be a desk and a typewriter, and these are often rented.

A stock purchase is a gamble, pure and simple, and money invested in this way should be "surplus capital" which the investor can afford to lose.

It should also be remembered that the advertisements, circulars and letters written for a "stock selling campaign" are usually prepared by the most clever and experienced advertising men who know every phase of the psychology of salesmanship, and while they are forbidden by law to state an untruth, the clever wording of their message seems to assure the greatest possible returns.

The safest way to avoid bad investments is to ask the advice of your banker. He knows the relative value of various kinds of investments and his experience has taught him to "read between the lines." He may refuse advice as to the purchase of any particular offering, but he can point out and explain many things that may have escaped your notice and if an investigation is desired he can instruct you in the course of procedure.

If you took a journey and don't see your name in the News, don't blame us. We can't get 'em all unless you help. Phone in about it.

PRUNING DEMONSTRATION A GREAT SUCCESS

The citrus growers of Sierra Madre and Lamanda were given a rare treat Monday afternoon, when about 75 of them met on the lemon ranch of C. J. Pegler on East Live Oak and listened to a lecture and observed a practical demonstration in the art of pruning the citrus tree, by Mr. Robert W. Hodgson, who is the Farm Advisor appointed by the U. S. Government for this district.

Mr. Hodgson has made an extensive study of the citrus industry and thoroughly understands his subject. An article appearing recently in the Farm and Tractor, written by Mr. Hodgson, treating on the June drop of the navel orange was perhaps one of the best articles ever written on the subject.

The meeting was not only very interesting to citrus growers, but was equally so to anyone who is at all interested in plant life, as a great many of the principles that are true of the citrus tree hold good with any kind of plants or trees.

This was Mr. Hodgson's first trip to Sierra Madre and he was much taken with the citrus possibilities here, and expressed his willingness to come out any time the growers required him.

Let us get together and invite Mr. Hodgson out again in the near future for a demonstration on soil management, as he is thoroughly competent to explain the peculiar formation of our soil and how it should be treated to obtain the best results.

The writer enjoyed a fine boat ride in the launch "Tilikum" from Long Beach Saturday. The ride lasted from 8 a. m. till 4 p. m. and we enjoyed every minute of it. Course we had fishing lines out too—and almost got a strike, once.

There will be no extra charge on your telephone bill for the items you may wish to send in to the News office.

A UNIQUE, ARTISTIC COTTAGE

The writer was afforded the privilege of inspecting the home of Prof. John Marquardt, 354 Sycamore Pl., one day this week, and was surprised to find what might be done to convert a rough, rocky mountain land into a delightful beauty spot if an artist designed the changes.

The yard is profuse in floral decorations, with a fountain and fish pond, rustic bridge, cosy corners, etc., while the house, which appears to be an ordinary cottage, has an interior arrangement that displays unusual genius, from the observation platform on the roof, from which a splendid view of the valley, the ocean and the mountains is obtained, to the billiard room in the basement. Every foot of space is utilized, even to a workroom, where the sawdust and shavings bear silent testimony to the fact that the highly educated fingers that have drawn melodies from the violin before most of the crowned heads of the world and delighted hundreds of cultured audiences in every civilized country, were also capable in the making of a flower box and repairing a broken gate.

However perfect as this home seems to us, it does not quite reach the ideal of this celebrated artist, and he has about decided to sell, if he can gain Mrs. Marquardt's consent, and build another on the north end of his property.

AUTOMOBILE IS NOW NECESSITY

Has Established Itself as Quick, Clean Method of Transportation Everywhere.

BENEFIT TO CIVILIZATION

To Treat Motor as a Plaything Is Big Mistake—Is Important Factor in All Spheres of Life—Commands Respect.

The automobile, as a method of quick, clean transportation, has established itself the world over.

It is true it was not considered such in the early days when its mechanical dependability had not been proved. But when dependability came, its position was made secure. Today the motorcar is an important factor in all spheres of life. It is a utility, a vital one, and is so recognized by those who have been introduced to its use, and who appreciate, to the fullest extent, its manifold advantages, and how helpful they would be if it were necessary to do without this modern convenience.

To treat the modern automobile lightly, as a plaything, is a mistake. True, it is ready for recreative purposes, but that is simply one method for which it may be employed.

Those who know most about accomplishment of the motorcar and the great changes the use of the automobile has made in this country hold it in deepest admiration and respect.

Motor Has Influence.

We all seem to agree that transportation is close to civilization. To achieve one, you must have the other. They go hand in hand. And it is not too much to say that the advent of the motorcar and its use during the last 12 years, particularly, has had a marked influence on the people of this country.

The use of the automobile has broadened us. We are better able to appreciate the country. We have a better idea of our United States. Through this agency the East understands a little better the West, the South knows more about the North and vice versa. The automobile has actually brought our people closer together.

Take the matter of good roads: What single thing has been responsible for our activity in this direction? The automobile, of course. And we all know it. The country was woefully behind in the matter. But marvelous achievements have taken place. Thousands of miles of splendid, durable highways have been built; more are under construction, and it is only a question of time before we shall have a fine network of roads throughout the whole country.

Is the automobile a necessity? It is. It is proving itself so. It is owned by those who appreciate the motorcar as such. It is estimated that more than a third of the automobiles in use in this country are owned by farmers, or those who live in the country, and who find it necessary to make frequent trips to near-by communities to buy supplies or for other purposes.

It is true the man in the country was able to get along, in some way, before the automobile came, but it is likewise true that his progress and advancement is dated from the time he was able to use a motorcar. Farm life changed from that time.

Is Economic Factor.

Is the automobile an economic factor? It is. Its use in the business world has been recognized for some time and is a recognized factor in present-day activity. To the salesman, the business man, the merchant, the real estate man, to those who must be about it, has lengthened days. They are able to do more—to see more people and to cover more territory.

And the man with a car does not get tired as easily as he would otherwise. He saves his energy for his work, rather than using it in getting to his destination.

Does the automobile save life? It does. The use of motorcars by nearly 100 per cent of the physicians in this country is ample proof of the esteem in which it is held by this profession.

In every walk of life, in every endeavor, in every instance where time is a consideration, where energy is desired, the automobile looms large as the vehicle to be used. Ask the automobile owner and see what he says. Stop the next one you meet and put the question to him.

We are living in a remarkable age. In an age when so much is taken for granted. The marvelous seems to be commonplace for us in the midst of marvels. The automobile was introduced in such a period.

It may be that we are too close to its newness to appreciate its wonder. For it is a wonder. A truly great one. But, like many other things given to us in the last 25 years, we have accepted it without giving the necessary credit to its wonderful capabilities. But it is a certainty that future history will give to the automobile its proper place.

Automobile Is Safe.

We need not worry. The automobile is safe. The automobile industry is secure. The automobile serves the people and as long as it does this efficiently, and there is a reason to believe that this efficiency, if anything, is going to increase. It is safe to say that there will be need for motorcars, and that the law of supply and demand will govern their manufacture and distribution.

But let us not forget this:

That the development of the automobile from a crude, mechanical affair—erratic and feeble in performance—to the powerful, smoothly running, efficient machine of today is a glowing tribute to the courage, determination and skill of those far-sighted pioneers who saw in the creation of their handiwork the birth of a utility which would some day become indispensable to industrial progress and national prosperity.

HANDY NEW AUTOMATIC JACK

Invention of Iowa Man Makes It Possible to Raise Car by Power Secured From Engine.

The new automatic automobile jack invented by Walter P. Evans, Des Moines, Ia., makes it possible to raise car wheels free from the floor, the power for operating the jack being obtained from the car itself, says Illustrated World.

The device consists of two sets of inclined independent jacks arranged to engage the automobile axles. A crank arranged to be operated by the automobile in its advancing movement, causes one pair of legs to swing forward and elevate the car.

Car's Motor Does Work of Jacking.

The front legs of the jack are adjustable in height to suit different cars. Any convenient arrangement of ropes and pulleys makes it possible for the operator to move the controlling lever that frees the car from the jacks while he is still at the rear of the automobile, and without the necessity of his going to the car in order to release it.

Inspect Wheel Cones.

Inspect the cones of your front wheel bearings occasionally. When they begin to wear through at the bottom they use a lot of power and should be shifted.

TENDENCY TO SEND HOGS TO MARKET IN MOTORTRUCKS INSTEAD OF BY RAILROAD

Excellent for Transporting Hogs to Station.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Motor trucks are being used more extensively than ever before to haul hogs to market, according to reports by representatives of the bureau of markets, United States department of agriculture. During the period beginning with October and ending with February, just past, the proportion of wagon and truck hogs in the total receipts at the Peoria, Ill., stockyards was nearly double that for the corresponding five months two years ago. A total of 50,380 hogs were brought to the yards in wagons and trucks during the five months of the past winter, or about 19 per cent of the total receipts, as compared with 16 per cent for the same period a year ago and 10 per cent two years ago. Increased production and attractive prices no doubt were responsible for some of the increase, the representatives say, but there is a growing tendency to send hogs to market in motor trucks instead of by rail where the distances are not great. This tendency is also shown at other markets. At the Cincinnati yards, for example, 138,972 hogs were brought in by truck and wagon during 1918, as compared with 77,232 arriving in similar conveyances in 1917.

Capital of League of Nations

Geneva and the New Bridge.

All roads henceforth lead to Geneva.

The Rome of the Caesars and of the Popes, which held pre-eminence in this respect for many ages, now yields to Geneva, which, since John Calvin's time, has been called "the Protestant Rome," writes Irving R. Bacon in the Detroit Free Press.

Geneva is to be the capital of the league of nations, which is but another way of saying the capital of the world. Thus the peace conference at Paris has decided.

In the middle of the nineteenth century, when, under the quasi-dictatorship of James Fazy, the radicals of the Swiss canton Geneva spent money with almost reckless extravagance to develop and modernize the city, de la Rive, a conservative, exclaimed:

"They want to make Geneva the smallest of the great cities; oh, that they would only allow her to remain the greatest of the small cities!"

And now, seventy years after he expressed this wish, it is about to be realized; for from now on it is there that the parliament of nations will hold its sessions and the roads from all ends of earth will focus there.

The census of 1911 gave Geneva in the neighborhood of 150,000 inhabitants, divided almost evenly between Protestants and Catholics. In point of languages the French preponderated nearly seven to one as compared with German.

On Beautiful Lake Leman.

The city is the southwesternmost point of Switzerland. It is on the picturesque Lake Leman (called also Lake Geneva), and is divided into halves, the old and the new towns, by the River Rhone. The number seven figures geographically in Geneva as it does in Rome. The latter city has seven hills; Geneva, seven bridges.

Geneva, however, is of but recent date compared with Rome. It was little more than a village of the Allobroges, a Gallic tribe, when Rome was mistress of the world. Julius Caesar took his stand there when he heard that the Helvetians (the Swiss of today) had decided to emigrate from their own country, which they had come to consider as too cramped for their national growth.

"They shall not pass," was Caesar's watchword. And two-thirds of the Helvetian people perished in a futile attempt to force their passage through the Roman provinces. It was the beginning of the Gallic war, which lasted nine years and became the fulcrum by which Caesar raised himself to the position of dictator of virtually the whole civilized world.

Birthplace of Rousseau.

Few cities have produced so many illustrious sons or been the arena for the activity of so many great men as Geneva. Jean Jacques Rousseau was born there. And it is no small coincidence that the city of his birth should have been chosen as the capital of a league of nations of a democratized world. For to no other one man does democracy owe a greater debt than to Rousseau. His pen was the flail which first set thrones a-tottering. Kingcraft began to decay beneath the corroding assaults of reason which he leveled at the "divine rights" upon which royal prerogatives were based.

Lord Byron's noble tribute to both Geneva and Rousseau constitutes almost the entire theme of the third canto of his magnificent "Childe Harold."

The same great poet has also celebrated the misfortunes of another Geneva in the well-known poem of "The Prisoner of Chillon."

Chillon is a castle on top of a crag which rises perpendicularly nearly 1,000 feet above Lake Leman. Here, early in the fifteenth century, Francois de Bonlivard, prior of St. Victor, was imprisoned.

Where Calvin Ruled.

In 1532 William Favell, a Protestant preacher from Dauphine, who had just won Vaud, a Swiss canton, to Protestantism, made his appearance at Geneva. His success was so considerable that he established his home there and, in the following year, Geneva entered into closer religious relations with the Swiss city of Berne, which had embraced Protestantism. Fribourg, which remained loyal to its old faith, withdrew from the alliance with Geneva. On August 10, 1535, Geneva formally adopted Protestantism.

A year later, John Calvin, a refugee from France, stopped at Geneva, intending to remain there only one night. Favel induced him to protract his visit. In 1538 the opposition succeeded in having Favel and Calvin expelled; but, although Favel never returned, Calvin went back in 1541, and gained such an ascendancy that he was soon enabled to set up a theocratic form of government, with himself at the head. He was, at that time, in his thirty-second year.

The site of Calvin's house, at Geneva, is at No. 13 Grand Rue. That of Rousseau, which still stands, is at No. 40, the same street.

After the French revolution the city was the capital of a French department, but in 1814 it became the twenty-second canton of the Swiss confederation. Since that time the history of Geneva, as regards its foreign policy, has been identical with that of the confederation.

PROTECT THE MIAMI VALLEY

Work of Protecting Immense Reservoirs One of the Greatest Projects of the Kind.

Were it not for the fact that the United States has been engaged in the greatest of world wars, the building of the five dry reservoirs as part of a flood-prevention plan in the Miami valley would arrest the attention of the nation, says Howard Egbert in Popular Mechanics Magazine. Further than that, international construction experts would be watching the work with considerable interest, because the project is by far the greatest of its kind ever attempted in this country. The plan, of course, is to insure permanent protection to the more than 700,000 inhabitants living in the Miami conservancy district, a region following closely the Miami river, an important but not navigable waterway which threads its way through southern Ohio counties. The cost is estimated at $20,000,000. More than 2,000 men are required to complete the construction work, and three years as a minimum is the length of time estimated as necessary to carry out the designs of the district. Five huge retention basins, or dry reservoirs, are being constructed, all of them now well under way. To construct any one of these dams means the digging, transporting, depositing and compacting of from $50,000 to 4,000,000 cubic yards of earth. For the Miami river channel the estimate is 4,000,000 cubic yards. Dams and river together will mean the excavation and transportation in all of some 13,000,000 cubic yards of earth.

The flood-conservancy project consists of the dry-reservoir system, which, once constructed, will occupy five different tracts of land in the district. At unusual periods of high water it is designed to permit all overflow water to run into these basins. They will be so stoutly constructed that they cannot break under pressure of millions of gallons of water. The river channel, thus relieved of the additional burden of high water, will not be threatened, and the customary danger of banks breaking or overflowing is entirely eliminated.

Best Way to Stain Floor.

To stain your floor a dark walnut have the floor perfectly clean, then take a pound of burnt umber ground in oil; paint stores sell this preparation. Next take boiled linseed oil and mix enough of the umber with it to color the oil, but not thicken it. Try on a small piece of board and add umber until you have the required shade. Rub this into the floor until the stain ceases to come off and the wood is of a rich walnut brown. Some of the color may dry out, in which case another coat should be applied.

Least She Could Do.

"Cholly tried to kiss me, upset the canoe, fell out, ruined his new suit and was nearly drowned. He's in the hospital now."

What Should I Do?

"I think you ought to go round and give him hat kiss."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

GRATEFUL FOR ONE THING

Soldier Might Have Seen Good in Other Changes, but Not in That Last Greeting.

The man who had volunteered his life for his country came back from the western front. His experience had completely changed him. He carried within the sense of an entirely new world.

He went to Washington. He heard the speech of a senator. He saw the lobbyists consorting together. He wanted something, and he waited for it in vain.

"It is the same old crowd," he said. He met the girl he loved—with another fellow. She told him that she still loved him and that the only reason she was with the other fellow was because she was lonesome for him.

"It's the same old girl," he said. He traveled on a railroad. The guard was surly. The train was late. The food was poor. The rate was nearly double.

"It's the same old transportation—only worse," he said.

He reached his home town. He was met by a delegation and a band. Within two weeks four of his neighbors had gotten the best of him, another borrowed half his pay, and at the end of a month when he walked down Main street no one knew him because he was broke.

He went back home. There was a woman waiting for him on the doorstep.

"My baby hero!" she said. And putting his arms around her, he replied:

"Same old mother—thank God!"—Thomas L. Masson in New York Evening Post.

GOT THE WRONG IMPRESSION

Grandfather Was Convinced His Pet Had Joined the Church, and Rejoiced Accordingly.

She is a newspaper woman and her grandfather formerly was a local preacher of circuit fame. He is very much interested in her religious state and worries because she does not attend church every Sunday night.

The other evening she went to a church to write a story about the new organ, the purchase of which had been made possible by her stories in the paper. So she took grandfather with her, knowing that while he could not hear much of the services, still he would enjoy being in the church.

At the close of the sermon came a surprise for the newspaper woman. The minister announced: "Miss S., who wrote the stories which brought the money for our organ, is with us tonight and I would like for her to come up in front so that all of us may see her and shake her hand."

Grandfather saw his grandchild advance to the front of the church and also saw the people begin shaking her hand. He had not heard a word the minister had said, but still he had the memory of camp meeting days to inform him of what was happening. They convinced him that his granddaughter had joined the church and with handshaking the people were welcoming her into the fold. So he did his part. He rose to his feet and began shouting at the top of his voice. —Indianapolis News.

Power From Ocean Tides.

So far such little power as has been abstracted from ocean tides has been insignificant. The rise and fall of the tides is not very great, even though it does amount to 70 feet in some places, and hence if any considerable power is to be obtained basins of large area must be used.

By damming the bay at Mont St. Michel in France, where the tide rises about 45 feet, it is estimated that enough power may be obtained to operate half of the industries of France. A French engineer with vast powers of imagination has conceived the idea of building dikes across the channel and across the Thames estuary to form two large tidal basins which may be used alternately to furnish a continuous supply of power.

Shelves Are Fireproof.

Not a stick of wood is used in two fireproof houses being built in England as an experiment, says an illustrated article in Popular Mechanics magazine. Concrete and steel are used exclusively, the floors being of jointless composition with rounded corners, while window frames, trimmings, doors, staircases, and even the cupboard shelves are of steel. The cottages are fitted with every modern improvement and are said to have excellent similar dwellings of wood or brick, both in time and cost of construction.

About the Weather.

In Fairfax county, near the old home of George Washington, a woodcutter without friends died the other day. At the funeral services there was no one to make an address. Volunteers were asked for, and when, after a few minutes, no one responded, a newcomer, who hailed from the Pacific coast, rose and said:

"Well, if nobody else has anything to say, I'd like to drop a few remarks on the remarkable health-giving properties of California weather."

Not a Handicap.

The Americans were not handicapped on the western front by their slight knowledge of the French language. As a matter of fact it was definitely proved—to the German disadvantage—that the American soldiers could shoot in any sort of language.—London Tit-Bits.

ON THE FUNNY SIDE

Continuing in the Old Way.
"Do you act toward your wife as you did before you married her?"
"Exactly. I remember just how I used to act when I first fell in love with her. I used to lean over the fence in front of her house and gaze at her shadow on the curtain, afraid to go in. And I act just the same way now when I get home late."—London Tit-Bits.

Perseverance.
"This is the third time you have tried to explain that proposition to me!"
"Is it?" said the care-worn statesman. "I'll try to choose somebody else next time. You see I'm hopeful that if I try to explain it often enough I may come to understand it clearly myself."

Nearer Problem.
"I say, are you thinking of getting in your winter coat?"
"No; more concerned about not getting a freeze out on my summer ice."

Had to Divorce Him to Get It.
"I understand she married him for his money."
"Did she get it?"
"Finally, in the form of alimony."

Sensing Affinities.
"The young soldier under looks as if he has just nosed his powder."
"So he has. The girl just back of him just powdered her nose."

Same Thing.
"I lost a lot of money at bridge this week."
"I didn't know you played bridge."
"I don't, but my wife does."

GEORGE'S GUESS.
"Oh, George, I wonder how any one could say that absence makes the heart grow fonder."
"I guess that must mean the absence of a third party."

Another Paradox.
Praised for his open hand and free to old stockkeeper Dan.
Yet ever since we've known him he has been a self-sha man.
—Boston Transcript.

Contrary to Form.
"The lawyers are lying low in that case."
"That's strange. I expected they'd do some tall lying in it."

Trap for Field Mice.
Catching mice in large numbers in orchards and fields is the purpose of a new trap made principally of glass.

Rather Vague.
"I hear Mrs. Blink follows her husband like a dog. Wouldn't you hate to be the spaniel type?"
"That doesn't follow. Bloodhounds do it, too."

Reversed Position.
"Here's an advertisement says, 'Lost, a long lady's black purse.'
"Say, that lady's not long; she's short."

Resigned to Conditions.
"You can't expect everything to go along smoothly all the time."
"I don't. I've got a flivver and a motor boat."

A Star Course.
She—What course do you intend to pursue at college, Reggie?
Reggie—Burlesque and vaudeville, principally.

Not in Public.
"They seem to be happily married."
"Yes. If they do quarrel they manage somehow to have their disagreements in the privacy of their own home."

A Difficult Aspiration.
"You depend on the wisdom of the plain people!"
"Yes," replied Senator Sorghum; "but while the plain people out my way are getting their wisdom, I want to be on hand as much as possible, as their instructor."

Her Qualifications.
"Don't ask that girl to the ball. She's only fit for a garden party."
"How so?"
"Don't you see she's wall-eyed and what a gait she has on?"

Not for Charlotte.
Charlotte is the three-year-old daughter of a College avenue resident. One of the recent warm evenings she removed her shoes and stockings and went over to the front porch of a neighbor to show her that she was barefooted. The neighbor said: "You had better get on your shoes or you will catch your death of dampness." Charlotte immediately replied, "Oh, no. I have had it."—Indianapolis News.

Which Had Which?
Mother had taken Joe and John to the doctor's for an examination as the teacher had suggested. At the supper table that night she reported the verdict to father. "The doctor says they have adenoids and bad tonsils," she told him.
Father looked surprised but before he could speak, up piped six-year-old John. "Which one of them is mine, mom, and which one is Joe's?"

In Short.
Sellum—How's the market, Wright?
Wright—Rotten; I'm actually starved.
Sold a bundle of vest-thank-you-for-the-submission slips yesterday to the junkman for enough to buy a package of Unlucky Hit cigarettes. As for checks, they're as scarce as crowned heads in Europe.
Sellum—In short, you're writing for the magazines, but they're not writing for you.

Happiness and interests.
Personal happiness is almost synonymous with personal interests; the wider the range of the latter the higher is the degree of happiness.—Lillian Whiting.

First Land Sale.
We should say the first land sale on record was the purchase of the field of Machpelah by Abraham, who paid 400 shekels of silver for the field in which he buried his wife.

Economics.
"If women gain political control—" "Yes; go on."
"Do you think they will allow the government to persist in collecting taxes on ice cream soda?"

Speed.
Morebanks—"Does your stenographer work very fast?" Banksmore—"Oh, about two packages of gum a day."

The Test.
"So you bought a parrot yesterday." "Yes; I want to see if they live a hundred years, as people say."

DADDY'S EVENING FAIRY TALE

By Mary Graham Bonner

THE GRAY WOLF.

"It's not nearly so thrilling," said the gray wolf.
"What isn't so thrilling?" asked the prairie wolf.
"I said it isn't nearly so thrilling," said the gray wolf.
"Well, what isn't nearly so thrilling?" asked the prairie wolf.
"There, now, you have asked the question correctly," said the gray wolf.
"Then won't you reward me and tell me the answer?" asked the prairie wolf.

"I will indeed," said the gray wolf, and then snatched his lips together as though he were quite through talking.

"Do tell me, then, don't stop," said the prairie wolf.

"I mean," said the gray wolf, who is the hero of this story, and who was known simply as the gray wolf, "that the zoo isn't nearly so thrilling as the wild, free life is."

"I could have told you that myself," said the prairie wolf.

"Now, listen to me, prairie wolf, said the gray wolf, "there are many creatures and many people who are always saying:

"Oh, that is no better than I could have done, or I could have said as much as that, or I was just going to say that."

"In many cases it might be quite true, but I don't like a creature to try to get the credit of something some one else has done."

"Just suppose a person made a fine speech and some cross, jealous person said:

"Oh, I could have done as well as that. He said nothing new, well, that wouldn't be nice at all. Now we aren't nice in one way, but we don't pretend we're something we aren't. Take my advice, Young Prairie, and don't try to get credit for what some one else does."

"I guess your advice is good," admitted the prairie wolf.

"Ah," said the gray wolf, "I am known by many names. I am sometimes called a black wolf because my family move from place to place and because we act a little differently in a number of little ways and look differently in different places."

"You're mighty fond of that word different," said the prairie wolf.

"Don't be rude, Young Prairie," said the gray wolf. "For I wish to tell you that what they call me means but little to me. For oh, I have been a great creature in my day."

"What was your day?" asked the prairie wolf. "Was it Christmas or Thanksgiving or what?"

"You think you're smart," said the gray wolf, "but let me tell you that I don't wish to pay any attention to such remarks."

"I wish to tell you that when I was free I was the danger of many a cattle ranch. Ah, what hunts and feasts and sport I have had."

"And another thing I wish to tell you is that my family are interesting and they're just as wild as I was."

"They, too, love cattle and sheep, just as I loved cattle and sheep, and though here in the zoo, they don't give me a chance to show my love for these animals, I can think happily of the days back when I had my chances and took them."

"And not only the days—no—the nights were even more important. Ah, such nights! Such feasts!"

"I guess some are glad you are safe in the zoo," said the prairie wolf.

"I don't care about 'some,'" said the gray wolf, "for I am a gray wolf and the gray wolves only care for themselves and each other. That is quite enough, quite!"

"I suppose in your opinion it is," ended the prairie wolf.

Think Best of Others.

Unjust suspicions sometimes injure their object, but they invariably harm the one who indulges them. To shelter an ungenerous thought about another, harms ourselves. If we fall into the way of putting the worst construction on what others do, of interpreting their words to mean something disagreeable and painful, we are warring and dwarfing our own natures. Trust and kindly confidence not only draw the best out of others, but make the best of ourselves.—Selected.

So He Can.

A gentleman who was visiting a school in a mining village, asked the question: "Can the leopard change his spots?"

"No, sir," said all the children—all except little Dan Lewis, who persisted in keeping up his hand. The visitor to satisfy him asked: "Well, Dan, can the leopard change his spots?"

"Please, sir," replied Dan, "when he gets tired of one spot, can't he go to another?"

What He Required.

After reading a poem about a little boy who was so happy because there were lovely flowers, beautiful birds, blue sky and running brooks, eight year old William remarked:

"Those things would never make me happy, Miss Jones."

"Why, William," replied his teacher, "what would it take to make you happy?"

"Simplicity," said the prompt reply.

WOMEN NEED SWAMP-ROOT

Thousands of women have kidney and bladder trouble and never suspect it. Women's complaints often prove to be nothing else but kidney trouble, or the result of kidney or bladder disease.

If the kidneys are not in a healthy condition, they may cause the other organs to become diseased.

Pain in the back, headache, loss of ambition, nervousness, are often times symptoms of kidney trouble.

Don't delay starting treatment. Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, a physician's prescription, obtained at any drug store, may be just the remedy needed to overcome such conditions.

Get a medium or large size bottle immediately from any drug store.

However, if you wish first to test this great preparation send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention this paper.—Adv.

Peace Epigrams.

At a dinner the other night to Edward Price Bell, the well-known American journalist, several epigrams were related about the peace terms. The Americans described it as "a peace with a punch." An English speaker said he had heard it described as "a peace with a vengeance."

I may add as the expression of the feelings of the ordinary man who has had to work through the 10,000 words, that it is a peace that passeth understanding.—Manchester Guardian.

Preparedness.

Mr. Homestopper—Trifler! If you don't love me, why did you throw yourself on my breast and put your arms around my neck and kiss me?

Miss Peachblow—Oh, that was only a training stunt. The best ever is on his way home from France and I want to give him the right kind of welcome.

Fats Fast.

Mae Day (in group of department store clerks)—Did you notice my last customer. Ain't she a perfect thirty-six?

Sally Cylic—Don't you fool yourself, girls! Didn't you see her hair? Why, she's easy over fifty.

A Precision.

"You object to the term, 'Demon Rum'?"
"I do. Demons are not supposed to have any real natural existence. But there is nothing mythological about hard liquor."

The Occasion.

"They have begun work on the new ship's sleeping quarters."
"Oh, then, it is the ship's berth day."

While some men practice what they preach, the majority would be ashamed to preach half they practice.

MIGHT GET IT RIGHT SOON

Youthful Sunday School Teacher by No Means Disconcerted by First Rather Wild Statement.

She is fifteen and teaches a Sunday school class of ten little girls. That they might "learn to keep and do them," she bade them commit the twelve commandments. The day for the utterance of the "twelve" statutes arrived.

The little girl on the end seat was called on first. Glibly she repeated the ten. There was a pause. She was waiting for the approval of her teacher.

"Give the other two," firmly commanded this elderly personage. "My mother said there were only ten, and that was more than anyone could keep, and she knows," retorted the assured little end-seat girl.

Nonchalantly the teacher began turning the pages of Revelation. She was working to Deuteronomy.

"Certainly there are but ten commandments. How stupid. I was thinking of Proverbs. You know, my dears, there are twelve of those."

Matter of Jurisdiction.

At the master painters and decorators' banquet the other evening one of the guests said to a companion:

"I notice a couple of doctors in the gathering."

"Yes, I saw them, too," the other replied.

"How do you account for their presence here?"

Jokingly the painter answered:

"Oh, we are obliged to be very strict on account of the union."

"How does that affect the doctors?"

"Every doctor must have a working card, you know, so he will be able to paint with iodine."—Youngstown Telegram.

That Might Help.

Gwendoline de Vere gazed out of the window at the drizzling rain and the sloppy streets and sighed dismally, as she pondered on the misery of things in general.

"Aye, I am heart hungry," she murmured in thrilling accents to herself. "What, I wonder, can alleviate these terrible pangs of heart hunger?"

Just then a voice came from the kitchen:

"Come on, Gwen! Dinner's ready. Got liver and bacon today."

The Farther the Better.

"I have here some fugitive verse," said the poet. "All right, let it fly," said the editor, wearily.

Hard luck is a machine for testing your friends; it separates the wheat from the chaff.

WHY SO MOODY?

To feel "blue," cross and nervous all the time is not natural for anyone. Often it is due merely to faulty kidney action. Housework and the many family cares wear the nerves and so weaken the kidneys. Then comes that tired, fretful, half-sick state. If you have backache, headache, dizziness and kidney irregularities, and sharp, shooting pains, try Doan's Kidney Pills. They have brought health and happiness to thousands of women.

A Utah Case

Mrs. J. Macartney, Main Street, Nephi, Utah, says: "I have used Doan's Kidney Pills both at my old home in England and in this country and have found them the best kidney remedy. Since coming to Nephi, I have had a bad attack of kidney complaint and I think it was caused by the change in drinking water. I had pains across my back and kidneys that were almost unbearable. After short use of Doan's I was completely cured."

Pardonable Curiosity.

"Gabe Sogback got hold of a drink or two of bone-dry licker tude evening and went home and threw himself on the bed, face down," related a citizen of Sandy Mush, Ark. "As soon as he was asleep his wife took and tied him fast by the four corners, spread out like a capital letter 'X,' and beat and mauled him with a wagon spoke till she might nigh smashed him flat. A parcel of us fellers going by heered the hooraw, and, 'lowing a varmint was killing somebody, went in, and sorter persuaded Mizus Sogback to turn Gabe loose. She said she had whipped him 'cuz she loved him. I reckon that was all right, but I'm sorter curious to know what she'd add to him if she'd—p'tul—hated him."—Kansas City Star.

Real Guilt.

A Chinese diploma mentioned something about a Chinese having committed suicide by eating gold leaf.
"Well," said a society woman in the company, "I can't understand how that could have killed him."
"Probably," answered the diplomat, seriously, "he died from the consciousness of inward guilt."—London Ideas.

Sometimes It Would Seem So.

Uncle Timothy used to say: "Lots of people gets divorced so's they kin git married."

When the pantry is left unlocked the small boy gets his desserts.

Care and Responsibility.

THE responsibility attached to the preparing of a remedy for infants and children is undoubtedly greater than that imposed upon the manufacturer of remedies for adults whose system is sufficiently strong to counteract, for a time at least, any injurious drug. It is well to observe that Castoria is prepared today, as it has been for the past 40 years, under the personal supervision of Mr. Chas. H. Fletcher.

What have makers of imitations and substitutes at stake? What are their responsibilities? To whom are they answerable? They spring up today, scatter their nefarious wares broadcast, and disappear tomorrow.

Could each mother see the painstaking care with which the prescription for Fletcher's Castoria is prepared: could they read the innumerable testimonials from grateful mothers, they would never listen to the subtle pleadings and false arguments of those who would offer an imitation of, or substitute for, the tried and true Fletcher's Castoria.

Children Cry For

Fletcher's CASTORIA

A Word About Truth.

"Great is Truth, and mighty above all things." So says the Old Testament, yet it is equally true to-day. Truth shows no favors, fears no enemies.

From the inception of Fletcher's Castoria, Truth has been the watchword, and to the conscientious adherence to this motto in the preparation of Fletcher's Castoria as well as in its advertising is due the secret of its popular demand.

All imitations, all substitutes, all just-as-good preparations lack the element of Truth, lack the righteousness of being, lack all semblance even in the words of those who would deceive.

And you! Mothers, mothers with the fate of the World in your hands, can you be deceived? Certainly not.

Fletcher's Castoria is prepared for Infants and Children. It is distinctly a remedy for the little ones. The BABY'S need for a medicine to take the place of Castor Oil, Paregoric and Soothing Syrups was the sole thought that led to its discovery. Never try to correct BABY'S troubles with a medicine that you would use for yourself.

NAVY ENLISTMENT CHANGES

As a part of the following personal letter will interest many of our young men, we publish it in full, that they may understand the favorable modifications in the rules of the recruiting station:

Los Angeles, July 17, 1919.

J. F. Whiting, Sierra Madre, Cal.
Dear Sir: I desire to take this opportunity to thank you on behalf of the Government for the many little courtesies your paper has rendered to our Government. I desire, at this time, to also express my personal appreciation and, as officer-in-charge of the Navy Recruiting Service in this district, to thank you personally for your hearty co-operation with me in my work.

Yesterday I received from the Secretary of the Navy an announcement that the navy has let down the bars for enlistments, and that enlistments now can be made for either two, three or four years, and also was the message flashed that our great big fleet leaves Hampton Roads, Va., on the 19th for the Pacific Coast. This fleet is going to make some wonderful cruises and I know there are many young men in your locality who would greatly desire to enlist for two years under the above conditions. This is one of the most wonderful opportunities for travel, with good pay, that a young man ever had. We are enlisting a great many every day for this cruise.

Our trade schools are running full blast and all branches are open for enlistment. Our big war pay has been made permanent navy pay and we are expecting another raise on top of this. Our bill is now in Congress to this effect. For the benefit of the ex-soldiers, sailors and marines, we are granting thirty days leave with pay, and they are transferred direct to receiving ships and are not sent to any training camps. I want the young men of your district to know, through your paper, of this splendid opportunity.

I would consider it a personal favor and feel under obligations to you if you will, through the columns of your paper, let this fact be known, as I realize that more men can be reached through these channels than through any other.

Again thanking you very kindly,
Very sincerely,

CHAS. A. HARRIS,

Lieut. Comdr. U. S. N., Ret'd,
Recruiting Officer.

NO LICENSE TO PRACTICE

The following news item clipped from the Los Angeles Herald of July 22, is published without prejudice:

"Herbert Clapham, 60, proprietor of a 'healthatorium' at Sierra Madre, pleaded guilty before Police Judge George S. Richardson today to a charge of practicing medicine without a license and was fined $200 and given a suspended sentence of 180 days in jail. Clapham paid the fine."

Mr. Clapham called at the News office and told the writer that he has for years been a practicing medical botanist in New Zealand, but that as he had no license to practice in the state of California, he depended upon Dr. G. W. Harris of Los Angeles, a regularly licensed and practicing physician, to diagnose, prescribe and treat the cases at the "Healthatorium," but that in a particular recent case the patient was very low and needed immediate treatment and to relieve the patient's suffering at once he did administer treatment before Dr. Harris had time to come from Los Angeles; that Dr. Harris came from Los Angeles the next morning and took charge of the case, but conviction as stated above was obtained on the fact that Mr. Clapham did administer emergency treatment without a state license.

NEW SERIAL IS BEST STORY

Regarding the continued story which will commence in the News week after next the following letter is self explanatory:

Chicago, June 3, 1919.

Publisher Sierra Madre News.

Dear Sir: Following a meeting of the Board of Trustees of Columbia University yesterday, it was announced that the Joseph Pulitzer prize of one thousand dollars for the American novel published during the year which shall best present the wholesome atmosphere of American life and the highest standard of American manners and manhood, was awarded to "The Magnificent Ambersons," by Booth Tarkington. The award was made by a jury composed of Robert Grant, chairman, William Morton Payne and William Lyon Phelps.

Long Mountain Range.

Sumatra is of volcanic origin and, together with the other members of the Malay group, formed in an early period of the world a part of the Asiatic continent. The Barisons, or Sumatra Alps, form a broken chain of mountains, running lengthwise of the island. Some of the highest points of the chain are 10,000 and 12,000 feet above the level of the sea.

DIRECTIONS—Drive in the west door and straight back to the "dead line." After test, turn to the right and drive through machine shop and vulcanizing department and out the east doors.

Experts will be in attendance to make the tests according to the new state law and give all information possible regarding same. No repairs or adjustments will be made during these evenings.

The OSGOOD Lense AND The VICTORY Lense

These lenses are listed by the Motor Vehicle Department at Sacramento as complying with every feature of the new state law. Both of these headlight devices will be on display.
